Raising This month we want to acknowledge our municipal partners in North Kansas City, specifically the mayor and the city council, and their incredible administrative staff. While much of our development work revolves around traditional fundraising, our success in advancing The Rabbit hOle is in many ways attributable to the vision and the generosity of the City of North Kansas City. Their investments in the project have been vital, providing assets to The Rabbit hOle that we could not have achieved on our own. These include a crucial parking solution for the museum, major infrastructure improvements along Knox Street that will allow us to bring visitors into the building safely and comfortably, and thoughtful consideration for projected bicycle and pedestrian activity along the 14th Avenue corridor. Maybe most important of all is North Kansas City's for-contributions program is administered by the Missouri Development Finance Board and enables donors who make capital contributions of $2,500 or more an opportunity to recoup 50% of their donation in the form of tax credits that can be applied toward a Missouri state tax obligation or sold for cash at 0.92 on the dollar. We have $800,000 in tax credits remaining so visit our tax credit information webpage to learn more about how you can take advantage of this rare giving opportunity. Thank you North Kansas City for helping us create an institution and an experience that will have a role in partnering with us to secure $2 million in Missouri state tax credits in 2018. The tax-credits-

I Want My Hat Back, written and illustrated by Jon

Klassen, is a beautiful and streamlined work of modern storytelling. The ambiguous ending and inferential activation of the reader make I Want My Hat Back a delightful and active reading experience. One of The Rabbit hOle's more contemporary exhibits, these characters will appear around the Explor-a-Storium for visitors to seek, find, and discover. Did the bear eat the bunny? You'll have to make up your own mind.

If you've travelled across the Kit Bond/Paseo/I-29/I-

Building

35 bridge recently, you may have noticed a few silhouettes gracing the second floor windows of our building. These friendly fixtures are just the first of our eventual guard of 12 glowing bunnies hopping along our parapet. Next time you're crossing the river, see if you can spot them!
